Before BOWMAN, FAGG, and LOKEN, Circuit Judges.

PER CURIAM.

Raising a scattershot array of challenges to the factual findings and legal conclusions of the district court, Tralon Corp., Soil Remediation Service, Inc., and Bernard Glieberman (collectively Appellants) appeal the adverse decisions of the district court that dispose of their contract-based claims for breach of warranties and fraudulent misrepresentation. The Appellants also challenge Cedarapids, Inc.'s entitlement to damages on its counterclaim and its recovery of attorney's fees. Specifically, the Appellants ask this court to "reverse the District Court's Memorandum Opinion dated September 21, 1998, reverse the District Court's Ruling dated May 20, 1997 to the extent it permitted Cedarapids to file its counterclaim, reverse the District Court's March 5, 1999 Ruling awarding Cedarapids attorney's fees, and remand this matter for further findings consistent with this Court's Ruling."

We review the issues raised by the Appellants under well-established standards. Because this is a diversity case, we review de novo questions of state law. Having considered the record in the context of the Appellants' contentions, we reject their allegations of reversible error. We are satisfied the district court correctly applied the controlling law and that none of the district court's findings are clearly erroneous. Because the parties' submissions show they are thoroughly familiar with the issues before the court and a comprehensive opinion would lack precedential value, we conclude that an extensive discussion is unnecessary. We thus affirm on the basis of the district court's rulings. See 8th Cir. R. 47B.
